

Joe's Collection - Design by Studio Salaris

The screen wall Joe's collection is made of teak wood and woven natural fiber with "Vienna Straw" pattern. The design is curved and round: it recalls the idea of the arches and doors protecting and dividing the spaces.

The very bright colours (red, green and blue) create a play of lights and shadows, of chromatic contrasts: they allude to the shapes and purpose of old-style screen walls, but recalling the contemporaneity thanks to the "avant-garde" materials and the design that combined a modern style to a more vintage one.

Studio Salaris

Studio Salaris was born in the historic centre of Milan, capital of design.

Founder Alessandra Salaris topped her classical education with the study of interior design in London and Milan, where she attended IED and graduated from Politecnico di Milano. She later earned a Masters degree in Marketing and Communication to better understand the challenges of the business she faces everyday. As of today, she has worked internationally.

In the past decade she has collaborated with the top magazines and companies of the industry.

Her ambition has always been that of delivering a customized support to help her clients achieve an aesthetic expression of their brands.

Her mission is to give a personal and recognizable contribution that enhances the clients' story and core values.
